
Regulation 2019/2088 on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector dated 27 November 2019 (SFDR)

Transparency of Sustainability Risk Policy

EIG integrates environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into our investment process in a manner that does not necessarily bind investment decisions to particular outcomes on ESG factors. When evaluating investment opportunities, EIG considers reputational, ESG and sustainability risks associated with such opportunities. In particular, EIG evaluates material sustainability risks, mitigants to such risks and potential ESG-related opportunities applicable for the asset type. Further details of the sustainability risks that EIG routinely considers are set out in EIG's ESG policy but typically include:

- Environment: GHG emissions, air quality, energy management, biodiversity and ecological impact, water and wastewater management.
- Social: human rights and community relations policies, employee engagement, diversity & inclusion, workforce health and safety, labor practices.
- Governance: business model resilience, supply chain management, business ethics & transparency, critical incident risk management, management of the legal and regulatory framework.

EIG tracks relevant ESG data, and where appropriate, integrates such data into the investment research and due-diligence process. EIG routinely receive ESG information from portfolio companies through periodic ESG questionnaires and through direct portfolio company engagement. EIG publishes an annual ESG Update which provides detailed reviews of ESG efforts firm-wide and analysis and updates on ESG matters relating to the broader EIG investment portfolio. In addition, EIG provides periodic reporting to advisory clients upon request and as required by law and/or the organizational documents of the applicable investment product.

EIG has an internal ESG Committee that meets at least monthly and is responsible for setting the firm's ESG strategy and policy, reviewing ESG issues and considerations regarding existing and proposed investments and making recommendations to the firm's Investment and Executive Committees.

EIG is a signatory to the United Nations-backed Principles for Responsible Investment, furthering its commitment to responsible investment which requires incorporation of ESG issues into investment analysis and decision-making processes. In addition, EIG was the first private equity firm to commit to Partnership for Carbon Accounting Financials (PCAF) to implement a standardized methodology for calculating emissions that can be compared across the financial industry.

Further information on EIG's current ESG program and strategic commitments for the future can be found in the following documents:

Transparency of adverse sustainability impacts at entity level

EIG has considered, and continues to consider, ESG factors in its investment process to seek to deliver risk-adjusted returns, but it does not consider principal adverse impacts of investment decisions on sustainability factors as specifically set out in Regulation 2019/2088 on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector dated 27 November 2019 (SFDR) except as specified in applicable pre-contractual documentation. EIG has chosen not to do so for the present time as it considers that its existing ESG Policy and related procedures are appropriate, proportional, and tailored to the advisory services provided.

EIG continues to closely monitor regulatory developments with respect to the SFDR and other applicable ESG-focused laws and regulations, including the implementation of related and secondary legislation and regulatory guidance, and will, where required or otherwise appropriate, make changes to its existing policies and procedures.
